

Q.2.3

Yes, my design require the numbers to be normalized. I would allow subnormal numbers because by using subnormal numbers, underflow which may occur in some calculations are gradual. Also, the smallest number that could be represented in a machine is closer to zero. The advantage of using subnormal numbers is that underflow is gradual as was stated earlier.